

Barry Yeates – Profile

Barry Yeates has developed all career advancement and related services throughout our company's history. His extensive consulting and coaching experience includes work with organizations and individuals in the government, multilateral, NGO, corporate, political and education fields in more than 25 countries. He has delivered training workshops in Canada, the United States and Europe at over 150 schools and conferences, and helped more than 14,000 people join and achieve promotions in the federal government, from entry to senior-executive levels in line departments and central agencies.

Barry joined the then Department of External Affairs (now Global Affairs Canada) as a Foreign Service officer. Among other duties, he served in the Media Relations Office in Ottawa and as Executive Assistant to the Ambassador at the Canadian Embassy in Washington, D.C. He was later Regional Manager–Caribbean and Central America for a CIDA-sponsored program fostering prosperity through trade, and led organizational transformation initiatives for North American corporate clients of an international consulting firm.

Barry holds a Master's degree from the University of Guelph and was awarded a Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council Doctoral Fellowship. He taught at Guelph and Carleton universities, and served as Secretary to the Board of Governors and Assistant to the President at Trent University.

How We Can Help You

Our knowledge of government and international organizations—and unparalleled understanding of their hiring and promotion methods—make us the only career coaching firm able to help people effectively pursue jobs from entry to executive level in complex institutional competitions.

No other service offered by government, universities or the private sector—past or present, in North America or abroad—matches our expertise or placement record achieved over the past 25 years. The success rate of our clients attests to the quality of our training.
